

Brad Fried

Bradley Fried was appointed Chair of Court of the Bank of England in July 2018.

Formerly, Bradley was a co-founder of Grovepoint Capital LLP, prior to which he was Chief Executive Officer of Investec Bank plc. Before joining Investec in 1999, he was a partner at McKinsey & Co. in New York where he focused on strategy consulting to the financial services industry.

Brad holds an MBA from the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, and is a qualified chartered accountant CA(SA) having trained with Arthur Andersen in South Africa. He is a Governor at the London Business School and a Fellow at Magdalene College, Cambridge.