

Lucinda Holmes

Lucinda Holmes started her professional life in the Madmen world of advertising and as Managing Director of an international company worked across the acquisition and mergers of communications business and the growth of an international group. Now an advisor or NED of several small or fledgling companies, she also mentors several Chairs and CEOs. She is a specialist in change management and helping leaders to achieve their true potential. She has also worked, pro bono as a Trustee of several charities and schools and most recently as Chair of Rugby School. She lists her interests (in no particular order) as: spending time with family and friends, the cultural arts, news and current affairs and people.