

Orna NiChionna

Orna is the Senior Independent Director at both Saga plc and Royal Mail plc and chairs the Remuneration Committees of Royal Mail and Burberry plc. Orna also chairs the Client Service arm of consulting firm Eden McCallum. She is Deputy Chair of the National Trust and is a Trustee of Sir John Soane's Museum and her most recent appointment has been to chair Founder's Intelligence which specialises in working with long standing businesses on optimising their adoption of digital technology.

She holds a B.E. (Electronic Engineering) from University College Dublin, an M.Eng.Sc. (Microelectronics) from University College Cork and an MBA from Harvard Business School. She joined McKinsey and company in 1983 and became the first female partners in its UK office in 1990. The key focus of her client service was retailing/consumer businesses and she co-led McKinsey's European Retail Practice for many years until she left McKinsey in 2001.